

From "Tying the Knot, The Sharp Dresser's Guide to Ties and Handkerchiefs"
by Andrew G. Cochran

"TV" FOLD

The "TV" fold was popular with stars on television shows during the late 1940s and early 1950s; thus, the name. Start off with the square folded in half, then folded in half again the other way, so it's about a nine-inch square.

1. Turn the square diagonally, then fold bottom corner up to the top corner.

2. Fold the left corner over.

3. Fold the right corner over.

4. Tuck the square, point down, into the breast pocket so that the straight edge protrudes as much as desired.

ONE-POINT FOLD

The one-point fold is somewhat like an upside down "TV" fold, except that you start with the square folded smaller.

1. Fold the square down to a roughly four and one-half inch square, and rotate it so the folded corner is pointing up.

2. Fold the bottom half over the top half, so it looks like a triangle.

3. Fold over the right and left sides of the triangle, so the two side points are now pointing inward.

4. Tuck into the breast pocket with the point up and adjust.

